POETRY PLUS OPEN TO ALL ARTISTS

Starting at 7 p.m. on the last Thursday of each month, all artists are invited to share and enjoy Poetry Plus at 395 NE 59 St. The space is described as a large white building on the northwest corner next to the railroad tracks. The next event is Jan. 25. Entrance is free, and so is parking.

Hosted or seven years by poet and translator Jonathan Rose, Poetry Plus seeks to unite talented artists including poets, writers, visual artists, photographers, painters, actors, musicians, dancers and those interested in the arts.

“Make a connection!” Rose said. “This is a chance to show and tell what you do.”

In addition to serving as a judge for local, national and international poetry contests, Rose has been the program director for the South Florida Writers Association for the past 10 years. Published internationally as a poet and translator, he has been nominated for a Pushcart Prize. For more, check Rose’s Facebook page.

Congratulations to Gabriella Raquel Bowman, a Miami Shores student at Design and Architecture Senior High who has received a 2024 YoungArts award in Design. Bowman joins nearly 700 of the most accomplished young visual, literary and performing artists from across the country in the next generation of artists to watch.

“It is an extraordinary privilege to welcome these brilliant young artists into the YoungArts community,” said YoungArts President Clive Chang. “We’re honored to recognize and encourage these artists at this critical stage in their careers, and we’re looking forward to playing an active, ongoing role in what will no doubt be an incredible artistic journey for each of them.”

This year, winners were selected from more than 9,000 applications across 10 artistic disciplines – classical music, dance, design, film, jazz, photography, theater, visual arts, voice and writing. Each winner will receive a monetary award of $250.

As a YoungArts award winner, Bowman joins a distinguished group of accomplished artists including Daniel Arsham, Terence Blanchard, Camille A.
