STAFF ANALYSIS

The National Hotel, constructed in 1940 and designed by Roy France, is an excellent example of the Art Deco style of architecture. The primary Collins Avenue facade is composed of three monumental vertical bays culminating with a domed tower feature. Several renovations to the building have taken place over time and in 1996 the structure was substantially restored. The applicant is currently requesting approval for minor modifications to the rear façade of the hotel. Specifically at the third level, the applicant is proposing to convert seven existing window openings into doors in order to access a new modest elevated roof deck with trellis structure. This modification requires the demolition of a portion of the wall beneath the existing window openings. Staff has no objection to the proposed modifications and would note, that due to the height and location of existing parapet wall at the eastern edge of the roof, the proposed alterations will be virtually imperceptible.

Additionally, the applicant is requesting modifications to the rear cabana building. This structure was constructed in three phases as follows:

- In 1961, a 2-story, 10-unit apartment building was constructed.
- In 1963, an attached 2-story east addition containing 10 apartment units was constructed.
- In 1970, a 2-story rooftop addition was introduced on both buildings.

Further, as part of the 1996 renovation project, the cabana building was modernized including a new façade treatment. The applicant is currently proposing to introduce new private roof terraces for the fourth level cabana units. In order to access the new terraces, circular stairs are proposed to be introduced within the existing covered terraces along the south side of the building extending from the fourth level to the roof deck. The proposed roof terraces include a new trellis system and guardrails. Staff has no objection to the modifications proposed as they will not have any adverse impact to the existing building or surrounding district.

RECOMMENDATION

In view of the foregoing analysis, staff recommends that the request for a Certificate of Appropriateness be approved, subject to the conditions enumerated in the attached draft Order.
