STAFF ANALYSIS

The North Beach Bandshell was constructed in 1961 and designed by architect Norman Giller in Post War Modern style of architecture. On October 27, 2021 the bandshell was designated as a local historic site.

The applicant is currently requesting approval for the introduction of two canopy structures within the western portion of the bandshell complex to provide cover for the rear seating area. The proposed canopies will complement the existing central canopy structure (approved by the Design Review Board in 2019), which has been extremely successful in approving the guest experience by reducing the effects of sun exposure and rain. The canopy design incorporates a shed roof that slopes up toward the stage with the rear projecting past the perimeter site wall, allowing for rainwater to drain outside of the bandshell complex. The canopy material is proposed to be composed of the same fabric as the existing central canopy structure. Staff is supportive of the proposed canopies which should have no adverse impact on the historic structure. In this regard, the canopies are freestanding and not attached to the building and could be easily removed in the future. In summary, staff is supportive of the proposed project which will help to further activate the historic North Beach Bandshell and recommends approval as noted below.

RECOMMENDATION

In view of the foregoing analysis, staff recommends that the request for a Certificate of Appropriateness be approved, subject to the conditions enumerated in the attached draft Order, which address the inconsistencies with the aforementioned Certificate of Appropriateness criteria and Hardship and Practical Difficulties criteria, as applicable.
